About

Having gained a national reputation as a therapist, Bridger conceptualized Mental Gurus in response to losing several youthful clients to suicide. Inspired from the losses, and in hopes of creating effective and actionable guidance for mental wellness and personality development, Bridger founded Mental Gurus on the premise that every person has profound wisdom to offer one another. Every user of Mental Gurus, is esteemed as a contributing guru, and thus helps train and develop the digital collective conscious that Mental Gurus is rapidly becoming.

As a visionary and innovator, Bridger has always been a true entrepreneur. Wanting to help people see their own self-deceptions, Bridger utilized technology to create a powerful psychometrics engine. Today it is the most advanced personality device in the world, and is still used on Mental Gurus for personality testing today.

Bridger began his Mental Health profession in 2002, when he became a guide for a prominent outdoor behavioral healthcare clinic for youth. Having facilitated over 400 seminars and presented in dozens of conferences, Bridger began his career leading therapeutic survival and high adventure expeditions for most of his 20's, Bridger also earned an undergraduate degree in therapeutic recreation, before also gaining a masters degree in counseling psychology.

Always passionate about alleviating suffering in the human experience, and obsessed with human consciousness, Bridger saw the potential that artificial intelligence wields to profoundly impact mental wellness and address major shortcomings in current psychotherapy implementation and practice. With limited resources, Bridger assembled his own development team, gained funding, and worked tenaciously to make Mental Gurus the success it already is.

Bridger epitomizes extroversion and passion, with an authentic confidence that characterizes the leadership that has brought the Mental Gurus team together. When he's not working on Mental Gurus, you'll find him with his beloved wife and 4 children - ideally in the outdoors. Bridger is also passionate about the arts, including sculpting, poetry, dance, and photography, and he has received several prestigious art grants and numerous awards for his work. His art has been naturally displayed in various exhibitions.

- Two of my good friends and I presented this at the NAROPA wilderness symposium in Sept 2010.
- The purpose was to gain consensus on a definition of wilderness therapy – which is suggested in slide 17.
- Our hope is to further the research body of wilderness therapy and respond to negative media and poor legislation/reports.

As the founder of UtahMushroomTherapy.org, Singularism.org, and PsychedelicTherapyAcademy.com, I am dedicated to revolutionizing mental health through the power of entheogenic practices. With over 21 years of experience, I specialize in training elite psychedelic practitioners through unmatched in-person practicums and top-tier academic programs.

Our commitment to excellence, innovation, and compassionate therapy is setting new industry standards. My organizations have achieved groundbreaking milestones, including the establishment of the nation's first mushroom-based wellness center and the creation of a pioneering training academy for psilocybin practitioners.

Leading efforts in comprehensive training and certification, I emphasize rigorous screening processes to ensure the highest safety and efficacy standards. Our mission is to harness the transformative potential of psychedelic therapy to alleviate suffering and promote mental wellness on a global scale.

At Utah Mushroom Therapy, we provide a unique approach to mental health, addressing spiritual and existential issues alongside mental wellness. The Bridging Model, our signature approach, ensures quality screening, safety, and effectiveness in all our practices. This model not only sets us apart but also ensures that our practices are both ethical and effective.

Our vision extends beyond therapy. We aim to educate and empower a new generation of practitioners who are committed to compassionate, innovative, and effective mental health solutions. Through Singularism, we integrate spiritual and existential healing, offering a holistic approach to mental wellness.

Join me on this journey to explore the profound impacts of entheogenic practices and contribute to a more compassionate, mentally well world. Together, we can make a lasting impact, alleviating suffering and fostering a healthier, more connected community.

Bridger is one of the most passionate and creative people I've ever met. He aspires to do many great things on top of what he has already done and accomplished. Not only is he passionate but he's passionate about things that most others I would say find difficult to sustain a passion around: global mental health and self awareness. He's been working on the Mental Gurus project for quite some time and its impressive how devoted he is to the project and helping others find themselves and improve themselves for the better using AI / Machine learning. It's always
